Beauty of an Elephant

Written by students at Conservation Club at the Ol-Jogi Primary School, Kenya

Elephant, elephant, yes you are so beautiful!
Elegant, yet energetic, waah!
Ears big, large and impressive!
Eyes sharp, keen and perceptive!
How beautiful are you. Yes, so beautiful.

Elephant so huge in size, with large stomach
High in intelligence, yes big IQ.
Heavy carrier of loads, yes carrier!
Handsome animal, with a long proboscis.
How beautiful are you. Yes, so beautiful.

Biggest mammal, grasser, browser, what a feeding frenzy!
Biting, munching on leaves, fruits, branches, bark and grass.
A pure, adorable, and loving, our heritage given, yeah!
How beautiful are you. Yes, so beautiful.

Stop, stop poaching our wealth. Yes, possible to do!
Poachers, why do you do poach? Oh, poach, poach why?
No, let you do other jobs. No destroy mammalian!
Our given heritage, our economy builder!
How beautiful are you. Yes, so beautiful.
As wildlife warriors, we are ready to protect the elephant!

Goodbye, So Long, Farewell

(Rhythm Kids Version)

By Kenneth K. Guilmartin

Goodbye, so long, farewell, my friends,
Goodbye, so long, farewell.
We'll see you soon again, my friends,
So goodbye, so long, farewell.

Goodbye, adios, sayonara,
Kwaheri, ciao, shalom.
Au revoir, zai jian, auf wiedersehen,
Goodbye, so long, farewell.

Goodbye, so long, we'll see you again,
High five for all your friends.
Goodbye to all the rhythm kids,
We'll sing, dance, and drum again.
We'll sing, dance, and drum again.
Oh, we'll sing, dance, and drum again.
